Self-limiting Beliefs

- Self-limiting beliefs are false, self-imposed mental barriers—rooted in past experiences or fear—that restrict your potential, confidence, and actions.
- These negative, often unconscious, perceptions (e.g., "I'm not good enough," "I'm too old") create artificial, rigid boundaries that prevent personal growth, career advancement, and goal achievement
- 5 Whys technique - When you identify a negative thought, repeatedly ask "Why?" to trace it back to its root cause
- ABC
 - Activating event: Pinpoint a specific situation that triggered a negative reaction.
 - Beliefs: Identify the self-talk and thoughts you had about that event.
 - Consequences: Note the emotions and behaviors that resulted from your beliefs
- Reframing - Consciously replace negative thoughts with empowering, positive statements.

From Hidden Blockers to Productive Beliefs

I need to be involved

I need it done now

I know I'm right

I can't make a mistake

I can't say no

I don't belong here

I can do anything, but I can't do everything

I need to focus on what truly matters

My role is to help others find solutions, not to always give them answers

My focus is excellence, not avoiding failure

I can say no to some things

I belong wherever I am

(Please choose any 3 or more of the prompts below)

What is that one belief that without fail continues to motivate you

Write 5 traits that are difficult to accept about yourself. Which of these traits can be assets in your journey and which ones need to be worked upon to minimize.

What is something you are afraid of losing? Why are you afraid of losing it? How can you support yourself if you do lose it?.

Write 5 thoughts that routinely bring you to a place of self-doubt. Now replace each of these with a motivating thought filled with hope

What is something that felt scary before you did it? How did it feel after you began? What lesson did you learn from the experience?

List 5 ways that you are different from others. Think about the characteristics, thoughts, beliefs, values and unique perspectives that separate you from everyone else.

What is something that feels out of reach? Why? What can I do to make it possible?

Reflect on 3 occasions where you persevered through an experience you didn't think you had the strength to? What traits, strengths, support systems did you leverage to power through in each of the occasion
